Free computer programming workshop
for women in Grand Rapids

April 12th-13th, 2019
Grand Rapids, MI

About

Django Girls is an initiative aiming to introduce women who've never coded before to the world of technology and increase the diversity in the tech community. We are organizing a one-day workshop and inviting women from all over the Grand Rapids area to join us and learn how to build a website blog using HTML, CSS, Python, and Django.

Target

40 women who have never programmed before but are motivated to get into field, and who will share their experience with others.

Date & place

April 12th - 13th
The Source
Grand Rapids, MI

Supporters

We are seeking sponsors to help make our participants' first programming experience an awesome one. Both financial and in-kind donations are appreciated.

Team

Django Girls Grand Rapids is organized by a group of amazing people! Rachell is a Django developer and Django Girls veteran. Jace builds, customizes, integrates and teaches engineering software tools. Ben is a Python enthusiast and active member of the local tech communities. Diane is an educator and front-end developer. Carla is an IT professional, a former Django Girls GR participant, and a community connector. They are all excited to share what they know and help get more women excited about programming!

SPREAD THE WORD!

We are looking for kind souls and organizations that support the goal of bringing more women into technology.

Reaching out to local communities is the most effective way to encourage women to try out programming. Many women simply have no idea that they can pursue these fields, and among those who do, many women do not feel that they are deserving or capable of trying it out.

Our goal is to change this mentality, help women conquer their fears and give them a friendly, inclusive, and supportive environment to explore the world of technology.
